Monday's vote constituted a kind of a grand slam to the mayor and council, the ratepayers deciding that they should not get pay for their services. The vote stood 107 against and 55 for. If the time of the mayor and council is so precious that they feel they should get paid for their services to the town, surely they can give place to others more willing to give service without thought of remuneration. Ratepayers today cannot stand for graft.

E. L. Warburton, superintendent of the Corbin mines, is a Fernie visitor today. The strike is still at a deadlock in that town. It is doubtful if that plant will resume operations until the Big Showing can be operated. Corbin is a camp which has worked more steadily than any other coal property in the west, but the Reds seem to have got control of the union and when this happens it is just too bad for the miner who is anxious to get along.—Ferne Free Press.

YOUNG COMMUNISTS

Tim Buck, the leader of the Communist Party in Canada, not only addressed a huge meeting in Lethbridge, but had the enthusiastic sympathy of this audience in the Communist doctrine he makes it his business to spread.

Free speech is a democratic institution so long as it is not carried beyond certain limits. What Tim Buck chose to say was what is accorded in the privilege of free speech. Suppression is not a good policy. If it is thought there are certain doctrines prejudicial to the well being of the State, it is far better that these be brought to the open instead of being allowed to remain underground. The people of Canada generally can be credited with sufficient common sense to see what is absurd in the reasoning of extremists. It does not do to take these extremists too seriously, and give them an importance by drastic action of suppression. This explains the freedom given to orators in Hyde Park in London, England.

Although the speech of Tim Buck was the usual outpouring of the Communist, there was a disquieting feature at the meeting last week in the presence of young children, no doubt drilled for the occasion, showing an enthusiasm for the cause of which Tim Buck is a propagandist. As different from the grown-up, these children little know what they are doing when they cheer for Soviet Russia, and sing the "Internationale." Here a problem is presented. It is not a problem for law and authority, but one distinctly for these responsible for young children. What is being done to wean these children from Communist doctrine? They were intelligent-looking children at the Trifon Hall, and no doubt all of them attended either the public or the private schools. What is the responsibility of the schools in this matter? Is there not some reason for instilling into the youthful mind a perception of what constitutes orderly government, and cannot this be said to be a responsibility on these in charge of education? Education is a great factor these days in shaping the young mind to comprehend what are fallacies. Is education living up to its responsibility in this respect?—Lethbridge Herald.

RECIPROCAL LICENSE

DEAL WITH R.C.

New British Columbia regulations governing reciprocal arrangements with Alberta concerning commercial travellers' automobile licenses have been put into operation.

Under these regulations, as outlined in a letter from Commissioner J. H. McMullin, of the B.C. provincial police, to the Alberta Motor Association, it will be necessary for a license holder to take out a permit.

The applications for permits may be made to the government agents at Fernie, Cranbrook, Nelson or Penticton, to the motor license issuing offices in New Westminster or direct to the motor vehicle branch in Victoria.

Applicants must state the trade name of the vehicle to be covered and its style; license number and province, as well as the engine number of the vehicle; name and address of the registered owner of the vehicle; name and address of the driver, as well as the number of his driver's license and province where it was issued.

Each application also must be accompanied by a statement from the firm by which the applicant is employed, this being to the effect that such person is employed by them and that he is a bona fide commercial traveller for such firm.

A new son has arrived to Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Campbell at 234 - 11th Avenue N.W., Calgary. Mrs. Campbell was formerly Miss Bessie Smith, of Lethbridge.

THE PARLIAMENTARY SHOW

(By J. S. Cowper)

There are two principal debates in the life of each legislative session—the debate on the Address and the debate on the Budget. Both of these milestones have been passed in the 1935 session of the Alberta Legislature. At the time of writing the members are in committee, considering estimates of monetary requirements for each government department. In common variance the Legislature is on its "last legs"—the last legs in fact for many members. The session is to be followed by a provincial general election when many faces will disappear from the House.

W. J. Howson, K.C., Liberal leader, who made such a slashing attack on the Budget in moving his amendment of "no confidence" in the government a few days before, renewed his attack when the votes for the salaries of ministers and members came before the committee.

For many years past the premier has received salary and indemnity totalling $10,000 a year (less a voluntary contribution of $1,340 of late); ministers have received $7,800 a year (less a voluntary contribution of $840 of late), and members $1,800 apiece. Mr. Howson moved that the premier's total emoluments be fixed at $7,000; that the ministers at $5,800 and members indemnities at $1,500. He also wanted the salary of the deputy attorney-general reduced from $5,000 to $5,000. He calculated that the saving on ministerial salaries and indemnities would be $9,900, with an addition of $1,500 from the salary of the deputy attorney-general.

Go! Didn't the feathers fly! Hon. J. F. Lyndburn, attorney-general, rose to resist this encroachment on himself and his associates. He had previously been telling the House of its needs of the widowed mothers of the province and how his heart beat for them.

"It is nothing but hypocrisy," declared Mr. Howson to the attorney-general, "to stand up and say our hearts are bleeding. We can keep as much as we like; what good is it, if we refuse to reduce our own salaries to make it possible to make larger allowances to these mothers. We talk about weeping our hearts out and then refuse to make a dint in our own salaries."

He was particularly severe on J. E. Brownlee, K.C., member for Ponoka, for defending the present salary scale. "Surely," said the Liberal leader, "when harassed and down-trodden taxpayers are bearing the burden, emoluments totalling $50,000 for ministers and $7,000 for the premier should be enough to keep them off the bread line."

The ministers and the U.F.A. members lined up solidly and voted down the proposed economies.

So much has Mr. Howson harassed the government during the session that tempers on the government side have grown short. During the week, Geo. MacLachlan, U.F.A. member for Pembina, made a personal attack in the House against the Liberal leader, without interference from the speaker. Rushing to the defence of his leader, with whom he has been closely associated for many years, A. P. Mitchell, Liberal member for Leduc, called the MacLachlan attack "the dirtiest thing ever said in this House." When he challenged the Pembina member to repeat the accusation outside the House, where he would expose himself to legal action, the speaker, Hon. G. N. Johnson, stopped Mr. Mitchell, ruling him out of order.

One of the features of the week was a front page editorial in the Edmonton Bulletin, calling upon Premier Reid to ask for the resignation of the member for Ponoka (Mr. Brownlee), in view of the finding of the jury—which was not displaced by the trial judge or the appeal court—that

SPECIAL EASTER EXCURSION FARES

Winnipeg, Man., Mar. 25.—In order that the travelling public may take advantage of the Easter week-end, arrangements have been made by the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways for special low rates over the holiday period, according to Jos. B. Parker, secretary of the Canadian Passenger Association, Western lines.

Three offerings have been arranged. There will be a fare and a quarter return, good going from April 19 to 21 inclusive, leaving destination not later than April 22nd. The second is a fare and one third return, good going April 18 to 21 inclusive, leaving destination not later than April 23.

A special offering is made to teachers and students of a fare and one quarter return, good going April 12 to 23, inclusive, leaving destination not later than April 30. This gives teachers and students an opportunity for an 18-day holiday.

GREAT MEN APPRECIATE SUNDAY SCHOOLS

David Lloyd George, formerly Premier of England, said: "All that I am, and whatever I have accomplished, I owe to the Sunday School."

The late President Coolidge of the United States, said: "The Sunday Schools furnish a great agency by which spiritual ideals are made a part of life of the younger generation of the people of the United States, and the growth of such schools is of inestimable value in providing a higher type of citizenship."

Shower baths at the Blairmore school have been "dedicated" by Tim Buck.

he had seduced an 18 year old government stenographer.

Peter Miskew, of Victoria, former U.F.A. supporter, who crossed the floor and joined the Liberals last session, charged that the government—on its own calculation that it could make $2,000,000 a year revenue by entering the gasoline and fuel oil business—had lost the treasury $28,000,000 by failure, while Mr. Brownlee was in control to enter the gasoline and fuel oil business.

Hugh J. Montgomery, Liberal member for Wetaskiwin, predicted the deficit for the fiscal year ending March 31st will be between $2,000,000 and $2,500,000. He based his prediction on the sums of money the government has been borrowing on special warrants.

GOVERNMENT OPPOSED TO INFORMER TAKING SWEEPSTAKE

Hugh Montgomery, M.L.A. for Wetaskiwin, asked the attorney-general whether he was behind the criminal code clause which entitles the informer of sweepstake money to claim the prize money as reward for information.

"What's your attitude?" asked the attorney-general.

"I am in favor of winners being allowed to keep their money," said the Liberal member.

From all sides of the house came approval, and it was announced also that Premier Hearn, of Ontario, refuses to enforce the informers' clause. The free expression of opinion may lead to a request for Federal authorities to supervise the administration of lotteries in Canada.

SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen heir to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur has been systematically looting the ranch, and old Joe Carr, your partner, is drinking himself into ruin."

Dad Kane, desert rat and luckless prospector till he refused to tell Dustin and Spike Goddard, who had grubstaked him, of his discovery of a rich gold mine, and shows samples of the ore.

Dustin unexpectedly comes along while Stone and Edith are riding fence, and seeing them, stops and talks to Edith. He mentions their dispute could be settled by marrying him, and Edith returns his proposal with remarks that make Dustin furious. He insults Stone, who promptly throws him into a pool of water.

Dustin learns that Gerald Keene has been sent for, and also that Duro Stone has seen the lawyer and is rustling Carr's cattle. He sets out with Dad Kane to learn the location of his gold discovery. Dad Kane shows Dustin the mine.

They go back to camp, and Dustin spots Kane. He fixes the lawyer on Peyotl Gregg, a drug addict, who, stupefied by the narcotic he had taken, did not know whether he was guilty or not. They bury Kane and then return to the Broken Spur ranch.

Meanwhile at the Hour Glass, Carr, Crewe and Stone speculate as to the meaning of entries in the notebook belonging to Dad Kane that Stone had found. Stone thinks of a possible solution, and, accompanied by Edith Carr, rides out to Red Water to test out his theory, which proves correct, and they find the rich gold deposit mentioned in the prospector's notebook. As they return to the ranch, they meet Dustin leaving the house, who, purposely, but unsuccessfully tries to ride down Stone.

Never Give Your Child An Unknown Remedy without Asking Your Doctor First

According to any doctor you ask, the only safe way is never to give your child a remedy you don't know all about, without asking him first.

the court-house door. Dustin's finger crooked in the shadows and another figure joined him; the loose, shambling shape of Peyotl Gregg. "See that man, Peyotl?" Dustin pointed to Stone. "That man has come in to meet the man Gerald Keene, who comes on the night train. The man will call himself Keene, but his right name's Kane. You see, the old man found a gold mine and it was on the Hour-glass land. This nephew wants to find him. If he finds him . . . you'll hang. Don't forget that. I'll be at the hotel when you're ready to go back to the Broken Spur."

Peyotl gave him one frenzied glance and his right hand sought his coat pocket. Dustin gave a little gasp. The man was half-crazed with fright and murderous intent. Dustin grabbed him by the arm. A little white foam lay in the corners of Peyotl's mouth, and his eyes glared with a light there was no mistaking. After a dozen of those infernal cigarettes Peyotl was ready to kill and Dustin knew it.

"Don't you take a chance," he muttered. "Don't pull anything at the station or in public where people can see you. Wait! You'll be sure to get a chance in the dark if you wait. I'd trail 'em if I were you and choose some dark place. Of course I don't know what you're planning. . . . You're a damned fool, Peyotl."

He sauntered off in the dusk and Peyotl, half walking, half reeling, headed for the little station.

Stone had already picked up Carr and Crewe and was waiting at the car when the train came in with a sheet of flying sparks from the hardest brakes. Stone himself was the first to leap to the steps of the Pullman and was almost knocked off his feet by the rush of a man who did not wait for the train to stop.

"Duro . . . Duro Stone, by all the gods! . . . A great hand smote Stone on the shoulder, almost knocking him over. 'Who's with you? We must get together . . .'"

"Wait a bit . . . Stone muttered between his teeth. "Here's your present partner. . . . We'll have to get together as soon as we can. I've got a lot to tell you. We need two heads here . . ."

The crowd prevented any exchange of confidences and then Crewe came up with old Joe Carr.

"Mr. Carr!" Stone grabbed Joe by the arm—"you wanted to meet Mr. Keene . . ."

A hand thrust forward and old Carr seized it. This was Gerald Keene, the nephew of his old-time partner. Gerald Keene, the only man who could help him in his hour of trouble. He shook that hand as one might snatch at a life-preserver flung in roaring seas.

"If you're Gerald Keene," he said, "you don't know how damned glad I am to see you. We've got a lot to talk over this very night."

"How about some grub, sir, first of all?"

"Fine. And after that we'll have a few drinks at the Silver Dollar and then home to the Hour Glass."

Those last words reached Peyotl, standing among the freight. He was satisfied now. The party would go to the Silver Dollar and that would give him his chance. He slunk off up the street and busied himself in the Mexican quarter of the town while Stone headed with his party for the hotel.

That dinner with its long delays and frequent drinks that came slowly from the bar, kept them till nearly ten o'clock and old Joe Carr fought his way from the table in spite of Crewe. His manager saw signs of what was coming and wanted to avoid it. Carr insisted.

"Of course Keene wants to see the sights," he clamored. "I haven't been in town for a year. I'm a wolf and this is my night to howl. Hell, man! Come on. No one's got to get drunk. I just want to play my old favorite 'Cripple creek' once more. Let's get down to the Silver Dollar. They have a big lottery there at eleven."

They headed for the Silver Dollar.

CHAPTER XV.

Peyotl Gregg had friends in Seco of whom Sam Dustin knew nothing. For five years he had supposed that he was the sole source of Peyotl's drug supply but that was because Peyotl had successfully smuggled his store into the Broken Spur unknown. If Dustin had known, it would have gone hard with Peyotl. The moment he left Dustin, Peyotl sought out one of those friends.

Pascual Mendez herded sheep (and that shows how far Peyotl had fallen). Not for nothing does the proverb run "If a man will do that, he'll eat sheep." Many of Pascual's sheep were black and Peyotl was not one of the whitest . . .

CHILDRENS COLDS

In Mendez's jacale, Peyotl took account of stock. Mendez was absent but Peyotl knew where to find what he wanted. From a hole in the trodden clay-floor he extracted an old cigar-box from which he took a red-and-green package of those ill-favored cigarettes, lit one and sat down to think. The very first puff stimulated him; the next gave exhilaration. Dustin was a good friend who had given him excellent advice and the future seemed rosy and happy. He passed rapidly from the first stage of half-lifted despair to the next, in which he saw complete fulfillment of his own desire. When he had smoked three cigarettes on an empty stomach he knew suddenly that he faced a golden future . . . if only this man Gerald Kane . . . or Keene . . . could be removed. Who was this stranger that he should haunt a man to the gallows?

"By Gar . . . The home-made cigarette satisfied him. . . . He stung the cigarette to the floor, flung out the spark, felt in his pockets and laid their contents before him . . . the snubby little Derringer pistol and three cartridges slithered. He thought the handbands neckerchief that stunk and reeked of the peyotl that he had been smoking. He very carefully looked over the barrels of the pistol, snapped it shut, wrapped it in the handbands neckerchief and thrust it into his coat-pocket on the right side.

This stranger must be removed! If he remained in Seco, his search for old man Kane, his uncle, would disclose the fact that he, Peyotl, had killed him. The result was plain.

He had heard those men say that they were going to the Silver Dollar and, of all places, the Silver Dollar was the most satisfactory for the carrying out of his plans. Of course he could not go brazenly into the bar and shoot down this man Gerald Kane. That was not necessary. Some subterfuge must be devised. He felt in his pocket to assure himself that the handbands lay ready-to-hand and moved down Seco's main street toward the lights of the Silver Dollar.

He was too wise to enter that brightly lighted room where a dozen men knew him. From the back door that gave on the littered yard he studied the place.

The bar was crowded with men from the Broken Spur, the Cross Keys and with a dozen "dry-farmers" in town for a night off. The roulette table and the chuck-a-luck stand were doing a healthy business and May Wilson keeping cases at the faro table had her hands full. As Peyotl stared in through the partly open back door, he realized that the setting was perfect. All he needed was the opportunity.

The slatted front door slammed suddenly open and Peyotl sprang back into the dark as Carr and his party swung into the room.

Another Tradition Upset

Earth Ebbes And Flows Like Tides Of The Sea

A favorite occupation of physical scientists is the careful upsetting of history, fables, or common belief by the insertion of facts, which prove or explain how things really happened.

From time immemorial the good dirt regions of earth have been considered fasteners of tall stories never thought of calling the ground anything but terra firma. Now, Dr. Harlan Stetson, Harvard astro-physicist, tells us that not only are we walking on a thin upper "crust" of a wrinkled old apple called Earth, but even this crust heaves to and fro like the tides of the sea.

Everyone knows the sea has its ebbs and flows, but no one guessed that land areas could be affected likewise until Dr. Stetson said so. With super-accurate clocks or chronometers, and more careful squinting at the stars, he corrected those "clocks" to the split second and found that Europe and America drift apart as much as sixty-three feet twice daily and come together again by a similar amount. All of which means another time worn tradition is ready for the discard.

But for all the researchists, when Popeye and Barnacle Bill step aboard with their curious "measles" they can't get away with any tales about how difficult it is to get used to the billowing waves of land tides after a peaceful jaunt at sea. Nor is sixty-three feet enough of a variation to excite European or American fluctuations of policy when attempts are made to agree on matters of trade, finance and world peace.—Christian Science Monitor.

THE SPIDER'S WEB

The tinted symmetry of a shell. The clear design on a turtle's back. These strangely prove to me all is well. That there is no shadow of fault or lack. The patterned sheen of a peacock's tail. The splendid hues of the pied macaw. These show a power which does not fail. In its changeless purpose, its perfect law.

The spider's web and the stars that wheel. The turning tides and the world's that run. Whirling on and on until thought must reel, These all are the work of an Infinite One.

The painted lines in an iris bloom. The stripes of bronze on a kitten's face. Strangely free me from fear of doom, And strangely cheer me with hopes of grace.

A Real Weather Prophet

Story About Beetle In Alberta Is No Myth

Not all stories about insects as weather forecasters can be dismissed as myths. Alberta has an insect that is a real weather prophet. It is the manure beetle, of the genus Aphodius, which emerges suddenly in the spring and autumn in countless numbers. The thorough study of the weather records fails to give any reason why the beetles should fly when they do, says H. L. Seamans of the Dominion Entomological Laboratory at Lethbridge, but there is a distinct and valuable connection between the beetle flights and the weather that follows. The first flight in the spring is usually the forerunner of a cold spell with snow, but this cold period is the last before spring growing conditions arrive.

The Pony Express

Was Started In United States 75 Years Ago

Just seventy-five years ago the Pony Express, which used to carry mail in the A. horse states, was started. The most famous of these services operated between San Francisco and New York. There were 80 of the finest horsemen and 400 hardy mustangs in the service. They worked in relays of 80 to 90 miles each, covered the transcontinental journey in nine days.

Strange Facts About Clothes

Origin Of Many Fashions We Take For Granted

Why does a tailor place a man's coat buttons on the right side? Because this fashion enabled him more readily to get at his dagger. Why are stockings adorned with "clocks"? Because they were originally put in to hide the gusset seams, when only cloth stockings were worn, and were later retained because they were considered ornamental. Why are women's hats "beaded"? Beaded by a useless ribbon. Because 4,000 years ago women bound a loose fabric about their heads by means of a fillet. Why do husbands and grandfathers wear busbies? Because they borrowed the original head-dress of Hungarian mercenaries in the British army. This was a cloth cap edged with fur. Regimental jealousy kept adding inches to this narrow adornment until the cap became all fur except its crown! Why does a man's morning coat bear two useless buttons above the tails? Because coats used to be almost like skirts, which needed buttonup to g and ah mh and ed buttonup to keep them out of the mud. Why does a barrister wear a black gown? Because, when Queen Anne died all the barristers went into mourning—and Queen Anne is still dead!

Fees Of Writing Experts

State Witnesses In Hauptmann Trial Ask Big Pay

U.S. Attorney-General David T. Wientz said the fees of some of the handwriting experts and others who testified for the state at Bruno Richard Hauptmann's trial were so high they would not be paid until they are cut.

Seven of the eight handwriting experts, who swore that Hauptmann wrote the Lindbergh notes, submitted bills, totalling $46,592. The eighth, Dr. Wilmer Sudler, United States government expert, of Washington, put in only a bill of $69.15 to cover his expenses.

Highly of all was Albert B. Osborn, dean of the experts, who billed the state for $12,000 for his services. His son, Albert D. Osborn, asked $9,655.

Watch Is Recovered

Lost In A Bag Of Relief Foodstuffs, Watch Will Go Back To Ontario

Lost in a bag of relief foodstuffs forwarded in a carload to Saskatchewan last fall, a wrist watch belonging to Mrs. Oscar Coleman, Delta, will be returned to her. The watch was found by a relief recipient at Lussland, Sask. Mrs. Coleman missed the watch after the bag was forwarded and word was sent to Saskatchewan where a newspaper advertisement led to recovery of the timepiece.

The remarkable thing about family pride is that people can be proud of so little.

Bunches of small carrots were worn as corseges by the ladies of the court of Queen Elizabeth.

Little Helps For This Week

"He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty, and he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city." Proverbs 18:22.

Purge from our hearts and strains so deep and foul, Of wrath, and pride, and care; Send Thine own holy calm upon the soul, And bid it settle there.

Let this truth be present to thee in the excitement of anger—that to be moved by passion is not manly, but that mildness and gentleness, and they are more agreeable to human nature, so also are they more manly. For in the same degree in which a man's mind is nearer to freedom from all passion, in the same degree also it is nearer to strength.

Is no grudging and for this is naturally pleasant to all, and everyone enjoys peace and loveth those best who agree with him. But to be able to live peaceably with hard and perverse persons, or with the dissatisfied, or with such as go contrary to us, is a great grace, and a most commendable manly thing.

WHO SUFFERS MOST FROM HEAVY TAXATION?

It should be everlastingly emphasized that the tax problem is every citizen's problem—whether he is a millionaire or a worker for wages. The tax problem is of greater significance to the man of small means than to the man of large means, unless we resort to the conscription of wealth. In spite of all the talk of "taxing the rich," government subsidies principally from revenue derived from taxes on things bought by the millions of people. The rich are taxed heavily, it is true—but the revenue from that source barely makes a dent in governmental receipts. The rich are so few and far between, especially in these days, that if the government confiscated all their wealth it would soon be bankrupt without additional funds.

It is estimated that 20 per cent of an annual family income of $2,000 goes for taxes. Little of it is paid in direct taxes—and that fact has led to the erroneous belief that people with small means are escaping paying the government. That belief should be exploded—every bag of groceries, every gallon of gasoline, every pair of shoes you buy, is taxed. If you rent your home, part of the rental represents taxes which the owner of the house must pay. If you take a trip on a train, the heavy taxes paid by the railroads are reflected in the cost of the tickets. If you smoke cigarettes, every sixteenth puff is a tax puff.

The average citizen eats as much, wears as many clothes and moves about as much as do people with much larger means. As a result, it is this average citizen who is most seriously affected by extravagant and wasteful government. And it is the average citizen who profits most from economical, efficient and thrifty government.

Pretty speeches will not make for good government. Neither will the sending of men to parliament solve the problem, unless the citizens are honestly in a movement for tax reduction.—Cranbrook Courier.

"Man," says a lecturer, "is the only creature foolish enough to get intoxicated." Well, we've seen herrings pickled.

When the bottom falls out of a mining camp or town nowadays, the residents are up against a tough proposition, for it is extremely, yes, high impossible, for them to again find a place to gain a foothold. Such a condition now confronts such places as Fernie and Anyos, where hundreds have been thrown out of employment and thrust upon a labor market that is already gutted. In times gone by the situation was quite different. When the slump hit Morrissey Mines and Hosmer, the slack was at once taken up, for the miners were soon digging coal at Fernie, Michel and Corbin. When the St. Eugene mine closed and threw some 400 miners out of work, these men were soon carrying their lunch buckets to portals and shaft houses at the mines at Rossland, Phoenix, the Coeur d'Alene and Butte. About the time Rossland slumped, Kimberley came to life, and when Phoenix "cracked up" the Granby company took practically all their men to Anyos. Smoke ceased to issue from the stacks at the Grand Forks and Greenwood smelters, but here again other smelting plants soon absorbed the surplus. This also applied to the lumber industry, when the closing of one or a half dozen sawmills meant little to the lumberjack, for he just put another roll in his trousers, a hitch in his belt, took a job of "tenoise" and was away to another logging camp where his laborers were required. But how different now!—Cranbrook Courier observes as much as do people with

WHAT SHOULD WE DO ABOUT OVER-PRODUCTION?

Of all the crazy explanations of the Depression, "Overproduction" deserves the leather medal. Imagine sociologists and economists telling us that people are hungry because there is a surplus of food! It is enough to make a cat laugh—if it were a laughing matter and not stark tragedy.

In the Catholic Worker for February this "explanation" is reduced to an absurdity. The question proposed is "There is a surplus of food and people are hungry. What should we do?" Here are some of the proposed answers:

A Banker: The government is spending too much. We should balance the budget.

A six-year-old child: Eat it.

Minister of Agriculture: By destroying food, more people will have enough to eat.

A hired Man: Feed the hungry.

A captain of industry: We need a restoration of confidence—and profits.

A farmer: If farmers had cost-of-production and city people had jobs and money to buy food there would not be any surplus.

A clergyman: Christ said, "For I was hungry and ye gave me to eat. Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto Me."

A militarist: We need another war. That would do away with the surplus of both men and food.

A mother: When my children are hungry, they eat if I have anything to give them. They don't go hungry because of too much food in the pantry.

A laborer: If I had a job and the money, I'd do my part to reduce the surplus of pork chops, eggs, butter, milk, beefsteaks, and what have you! His Satanic Majesty: Robberies, murder, vice, corruption and crime of all kinds flourish when multitudes are hungry. I am heartily in favor of the reduction program. In fact, to let you in on a secret, it was I who invented the plan to get more by producing less.

Without being a specialist in economics, anyone can see that to suggest that the way to abolish the bread lines to destroy food or produce less food is equivalent to saying that the best way to provide accommodation for a large family is for the father to burn down half of the house. Way back in the eighteenth century, Malthus maintained that over-production would lead to world-wide famine. This English parson was the first of the birth controllers. The population has increased enormously since his time, and now instead of having too little food we are gravely having too much! As we have said, it is enough to make a cat laugh, that is, unless that cat is in the bread—or milk—line. These "economists" ought to get into a huddle and at least speak with the same voice. They can't have it both ways.—Canadian Freeman.

AN AMERICAN FARCE

With the fate of Bruno Hauptmann we need not be concerned. The jury which listened to the evidence in the famous Lindbergh kidnapping case pronounced him guilty of the crime. The sentence of death in the electric chair pronounced by Judge Trenchard is provided by New Jersey statutes for such findings. The jury decided, according to its convictions, and the court acted according to law. American sense of justice can ask no more than this.

But America should stand ashamed of the three-ring circus it made of the trial. Newspapers, radio and the movies vied with each other in attempting to satisfy a morbid public appetite. The American people are strong for thrills. But there are legitimate ways in which this craving can be met. It was scarcely a part of good manners to make a vaudeville show out of something as serious as the case of a man on trial for his life.—Cranbrook Courier.

The finger thinks a grand piano is one that plays by pushing a button.

The editor of a metropolitan newspaper, immersed in moving world events, sometimes loses touch with the realities and virtues of life. But the editor of a country weekly is rooted pleasantly and usefully in the very soil of his community. He not only gets to know events but to know men. His is a personal journalism. His is a high and personal service. His is a fine duty of community leadership. Thus the weekly newspaper and weekly newspaper editors are one of the most influential and benign forces in the life of this continent—Vancouver Sun.

MEN IN CAMP GO TO SCHOOL

Two hundred and sixty single unemployed men in government work camps in this province are attending "school" nightly in the camps and are receiving instructions from teachers who are paid by the provincial department of education. W. J. Sherry, supervisor of education for the camps, states.

In camps where there are no qualified teachers, students with grade 12 standing are selected and to date the plan has worked out very satisfactorily, Mr. Sherry said. At the present time "schools" are being conducted in camps at Banff, Cochrane, Morley, Kananaskis, The Gap, Canmore, Kananaskis Valley, Seebe, Lusk Creek, Eau Claire and Barrier.

The majority of the men attending the schools are foreign born, and they are being taught how to speak, read and write English. Other men, however, are being instructed in typing and bookkeeping, while no less than a dozen are being taught higher mathematics.

In addition to attending class, the men can subscribe to correspondence courses which are provided free. These courses include elementary steam engineering, third-class steam and third-class coal. Other courses provide for mechanical drawing, building construction, practical electricity, auto mechanics and prospecting.

The school and other activities have been made public as a result of co-operation between the department of militia and defence, the Alberta department of education and the University of British Columbia, Mr. Sherry said.

Special huts will be constructed in all camps next year for use as school houses, it was said—Calgary Herald.

We see an awful lot in the daily papers about the Reds at Blairmore. We think they're Polish, too, but when we look back about twenty-five years and see how these people were induced to come to Canada to replace real Anglo-Saxon labor, we wonder if some of the blame could not well be laid at the doors of some of those "great pioneers of industry" who would do anything anyway to make a dollar. What is happening now is merely the "reaping of the whirlwind."—Clareholm Local Press.

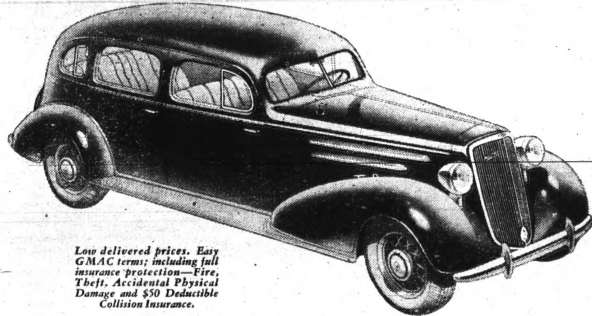

A force of rangers, modelled after the spie and span Royal Canadian Mounted Police, will be formed by the Newfoundland commission government as soon as approval is given by the Dominion's office in London. Consisting of 62 men at the start, the force will set up 18 posts on the island and five in Labrador. A chief ranger, one inspector, seven sergeants, six corporals and 37 rangers will be assigned to the task of patrolling Newfoundland. Aeroplanes, automobiles, motor boats, horses and dog teams will be their "mounts" as they carry on not only police work, but administrative activities in connection with customs, relief and protection of forests and game. The original Newfoundland police force had a nucleus from the celebrated Irish constabulary which came to the island around sixty years ago.

Is Democracy A Failure?

Articles appearing in this column from week to week have, over a considerable period of time, had two main objectives—to convey information and to provide constructive thought on the part of the reader. At the same time an earnest endeavor has been made to refrain from discussion of questions which are the subject of partisan political controversy or of sharp differences of opinion arising out of racial or religious views. In the present disturbed state of the world, when practically every financial, economic and social question has become part and parcel of some political creed it is no easy matter for any writer, unless he confines himself to meaningless platitudes, not to appear to take sides and express views which others may interpret as somewhat partisan in character one way or another. Notwithstanding this difficulty an honest effort has been made in this column to steer clear of partisanship while at the same time in discussing matters of public interest to give some point and value to these articles.

The writer is firmly convinced that what is needed at all times, and never more so than at present, is adherence to well grounded sound principles, the dissemination of accurate information, and clear constructive thinking on the part of each individual citizen. A demagogue may be clever and interesting and able to sway a mob, but he is not a safe and constructive leader and a mob is a dangerous thing.

This week we propose to submit a few questions, but do not intend to answer them. Rather our object is to have the reader answer them for himself or herself, in other words, to think for himself.

General Hugh S. Johnson, until recently director of Roosevelt's NRA programme, stated the other day that "democracy is the best government in the world for peace and prosperity, but it is the worst government in the world for a great war or a great crisis." Is this true, and if it is true what does such a statement or situation imply? Does it mean that democracy as a system of government is right, but that the people who constitute the democracy, and therefore the government, are unreliable and cannot be trusted? Is it the system or the people who are weak? Does it mean that when things are proceeding smoothly and the people have a minimum of worries, they are careless, thoughtless, indifferent? Does it mean that when a crisis develops these same people become panic stricken, emotional and reckless, ready to act precipitately without taking thought of the ultimate consequences of their action?

Does General Johnson's statement, if true, imply that the nations of the world should abandon democracy as a system of government and revert to more autocratic and dictatorial forms of government, thereby relinquishing the political freedom which has been the chief reason for the success of autocratic governments full control at all times, in peace and prosperity as well as in times of war, emergency and crisis?

If democracy is not to be abandoned, and we are not to accept Communism, Fascism, Socialism, or other forms of government which involve abandonment of existing democratic political rights and freedom, how is democracy to be made safe for the world at all times, because it cannot be thrown into the hands of irresponsible and untrained persons, and made to function efficiently the moment the crisis passes?

It will be admitted that with the coming of what has been termed the Industrial Revolution of the Nineteenth century, human society was completely reorganized. The worker has risen from his old feudal status and there has been an extraordinary rise in wage levels and living standards. With this rise of the economic status of the worker there has been an even more pronounced rise in his social and political status. Public schools, newspapers, labor unions, and the influence of wage-earners as consumers have established the political power of the workers and primary producers. The universal ballot, without property or educational qualification, have given control of government to the masses of the people.

Commenting on this development a professor of economics in one of the great American universities has written: "Here lies the danger of injury to progress. This power has been obtained, naturally enough, in advance of economic knowledge. Visionary theorists and self-seeking politicians may guide and direct it into perilous paths. Nobody wants to throw back this tide of democracy. Nobody can. But it needs to lead self-control and to gain understanding. It has neither at present."

Is this professor of economics right? Is democracy endangered by lack of self-control and understanding on the part of those very people who have the most to lose and suffer if democracy is lost to the world, and who have the most to gain and enjoy if democracy is maintained and made to function in times of emergency and crisis as well as in times of peace and prosperity? In a word, are our present political rights and power under democracy to be unthinkingly utilized in a time of stress and emergency to overthrow and destroy democracy itself? Are people going to prove the truth of General Johnson's observation that democracy is not a safe system in times of crisis?

How can people be taught self-control in times of emergency? How can the tendency to panic be overcome? How can the masses be taught to control the masses so that they will refrain from panic and exercise self-control and thus overcome the crisis and prevent the taking of disastrous action? How, when there are demagogues, agitators, self-seekers whether in politics or other spheres, ready to inflame and mislead the masses, are these masses of voters who to-day control all governments, going to be educated to think for themselves, refrain from being influenced by mob psychology, and exercise self-control through the obtaining of sound knowledge and an understanding of basic irrefutable principles?

Is the task too great for democracy, that is, for mankind itself? Or must mankind revert to the state from which it has struggled upward through the centuries and make confession that, being incapable of self-government in the mass, there is only one thing to do and that is to repossess its trust and place the power which the masses now possess in the hands of a few to exercise full power, direction and control over them? Finally, if this is done, will the masses remain content to have it so, or will the old struggle of man be commenced all over again?

This is the acute problem facing the world to-day? Democracy itself must and will answer it. Will that answer be for its own preservation, or will it be for self-destruction?

Not a drug . . . safe, effective, economical!

Stop sour stomach, bad breath, headaches and all constipation ills. You can do it easily, cheaply with Quaker Bran.

Quaker Bran, the coating of the wheat, is milled so soft it cannot irritate. Yet it is effective. It works with nature to produce normal, healthy bowel movement . . . persuaading the intestinal muscles to normal activity.

Remember, Quaker Bran is different from all prepared bran cereals. It is pure bran, uncooked—untreated—undiluted. For these reasons it is definitely richer in mineral and vitamin content.

Serve it with your regular cereal each morning or in muffins, cookies, etc. There is a recipe book in every package.

Bells Rang Electrically

Italian Villagers Looked For Miracle Until Mystery Solved

When they heard the bells of the little church of Santa San Pietro ringing for a number of days and nights, apparently by themselves, the villagers of a miracle. Italy, thought it portended a miracle. The clappers of the bells were tied and the parish priest locked the bell tower and put the key in his pocket. But still the bells went on ringing. Finally the local electrician discovered the bells were being rung electrically as the overhead wire for the tramway line between Lucca and Magliano had come into contact with the belfry. Now the villagers are able to sleep again.

DOUBLED UP WITH RHEUMATISM

Could Not Wash Himself Nor Brush His Hair

So bad was his rheumatism that his friends declared he would never work again. Although he is 70 years old, he proved they were wrong. Read what he says.

"I am seventy years of age. Last Christmas I was completely doubled up with rheumatism. I could not brush my hair nor wash myself. People said I should never work any more. I am working harder than a young man to-day. Thanks, many thanks, to Kruschen Salts. I take them in my tea, and I have recommended them to many. I could not get in or out of bed myself, nor sit up. But see my work now—12 hours a day sometimes. Kruschen Salts have done it."—G. J.

Rheumatic conditions are the result of an excess of uric acid in the body. Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid crystals. Other ingredients assist Nature to expel these dissolved crystals through the natural channel. In addition, there are still other salts in Kruschen which prevent food fermentation in the intestines, and thereby check the further accumulation of uric acid. Only uric acid and other body poisons which undermine the health.

Left Estate To Servants

Chauffeur, Cook, and Maid Inherit Mansion Of Mistress

A chauffeur and his wife, a cook and an "upstairs girl" are masters and mistresses of an estate at Newton, Mass., in which a few days ago they were servants.

The will of their late employer, Mrs. Jessie A. Goddard, 80, left them the statutory mansion to do with as they saw fit.

Heirs to the estate were William Wilson, for 25 years Mrs. Goddard's chauffeur, his wife, Annie; Miss Margaret Macauley, cook; and Miss Jane Douglas, maid.

Other bequests, totalling $200,000, were distributed to friends, former servants, charities, churches and distant relatives.

SWEARS TO TRUTH OF STATEMENT

Mr. Sam Sansone, 44 Front Street, Toronto, tells in a sworn statement how Fruit-a-lives brought relief after he had suffered badly from indigestion. He wants other sufferers to be helped as he was. That is why he gives a statement of his experience. And in order that everyone may be convinced of its absolute truth Mr. Sansone made his statement under oath before a notary. In part, it reads: "For a long time I suffered badly from indigestion. I tried everything but I continued to get worse. A friend recommended Fruit-a-lives. After taking them, it was not long before I was entirely well and could eat anything without pain or after effects. Copy of Mr. Sansone's complete sworn statement will be sent, on request. Write Fruit-a-lives—25¢ and 50¢ EVERYWHERE.

Cheerful Factors

Moderate Improvement Shown Is Expected To Continue

The moderate improvement reported a year ago may be expected to continue, the fourth annual "Farm Outlook for Saskatchewan" prepared by Dr. William Allen and Professor E. C. Hope of the department of farm management of the University of Saskatchewan, predicted. Wheat doubtless will be more likely to rise than decline, some improvement over last year in prices for beef cattle, dairy cows and butter, rising prices for sheep and work horses, and a rise in wool towards the end of the year, are some of the cheerful factors indicated.

Was Nobel Prize Winner

Prof. MacLeod, Co-Discoverer Of Insulin, Dies In Scotland

Prof. John James Rickard MacLeod, 58, co-discoverer of insulin, who spent a number of years teaching at the University of Toronto and the Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio, died recently at Aberdeen, Scotland.

With Sir Frederick Banting of the University of Toronto, Prof. MacLeod was awarded the Nobel prize in medicine for the insulin achievement in 1923.

Prof. MacLeod returned to Aberdeen seven years ago to take the chair of physiology at Aberdeen University.

Lives of thousands were saved by the insulin treatment for diabetes which Sir Frederick, Professor MacLeod and Dr. Charles H. Best developed.

Prof. MacLeod was born at Cluny, near Dunkeld, Scotland, son of Robert MacLeod, and was educated at the Aberdeen Grammar school, and at Marischal College, Aberdeen. After a short period of post-graduate study in London and in the continent, he came to the United States. At the age of 27 he was appointed professor of physiology at the Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio.

Using Sun For Cooking

Solar Heat Collector, Shown At Meeting Of Scientists

A device for making the sun do a part of man's work was shown to the American Association for the Advancement of Science at the beginning of its winter meeting in Pittsburgh. It is a solar heat collector which, in twenty minutes, develops temperature in excess of 400 degrees Fahrenheit. The inventor is the secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, Dr. C. G. Abbot. The device can be used for ordinary cooking purposes. Dr. Abbot has been using it on Mount Wilson (California) for the generation of steam power. It is hoped that ultimately it can be made to drive large steam engines at a practicable cost. The apparatus employs a number of small mirrors fixed at right angles to the earth's axis and mounted on a frame which will turn on an axle parallel to the earth's axis. There are a number of tubes filled with black oil and protected from loss of heat by double vacuum jackets. These transmit the collected heat to a reservoir of oil, and into this reservoir ovens are inserted for cooking purposes or a tubular boiler for generating steam.

Handles Letters Quickly

Robot Sorter Has Been Tested At Brighton, England

In future, most letter-sorting may be entrusted to a machine capable of handling letters three times as quickly as by hand. This robot sorter, which has been tried out at Brighton, is like a huge typewriter. Letters pass into it on a running belt. When the practised eye of the operator sees Leeds, for instance, he presses the Leeds key, when Glasgow, the Glasgow key, and these letters automatically fall into their proper receptacle. It is to be hoped, for the peace of mind of the operator, that there is a receptacle for the doubtful class which requires a handwriting expert.

Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

PEANUT BUTTER WHIRLS

2 cups (1½ pound) vanilla wafer crumbs
½ teaspoon vanilla
Sweetened condensed milk (approximately 7 tablespoons)
¾ cup peanut butter.
Roll vanilla wafers to crumbs and add flavoring. Add ¼ cup sweetened condensed milk, blending thoroughly. Add remaining sweetened condensed milk, a spoonful at a time, until mixture becomes thick paste. Pat out flat on wax paper (in an oblong ten inches by six inches) and let stand until surface dries a little (15 minutes). Spread with peanut butter and roll up like a small jelly roll. Chill. Serve, cut in thin slices. Makes 1½ dozen.

SWISS STEAK

2 pounds round or sirloin steak cut 2 inches thick
¾ cup flour, mix with salt and pepper
¾ cup ham or bacon drippings
Few slices onion
½ green pepper, chopped fine
2 cups boiling water or 1 cup water and 1 cup strained tomatoes.
Pound flour into meat with wooden potato masher or edge of heavy plate. Heat the fat. Brown the meat on each side in it. Add onion, green pepper, boiling water and tomato. Cover closely. Simmer two hours. This may be cooked in a casserole in the oven. Other vegetables may be added if desired.

After a specimen of the Black Widow, the only known poisonous spider in North America, had been found in a tomato field at Summerland, British Columbia, other specimens were forwarded to the provincial entomologist from many interior points in the province, including Nelson, Trail, Nakusp, and from Enderby south to the international boundary.

For the first seven weeks of 1935 shipments of livestock from Western to Eastern Canada included 4,955 cattle; 271 calves; 33,293 hogs, and 16,625 sheep.

Royalty Needs A Passport

Only King And Queen Exempt From Carrying One

It is not generally known that during his visit to the Continent, the Prince of Wales carries a passport just like any other traveller. But so well known is His Royal Highness across the Channel that rarely is he asked to produce it. Having regard to the number of miles he has travelled with it, since it was first issued to him, it is probably been visaged less than any other of similar age. The only members of our Royal Family who are exempt from carrying a passport are the King and Queen, and of the others, the Duke of Connaught has made more frequent use of his than any other British royalty. This he uses chiefly for his annual visit to his villa in the South of France, but, like the Prince, his Royal Highness is now so well known to all the officials with whom he is brought into contact during his journeys through France that it is but rarely that he is asked to submit it for inspection. Though all rulers are exempt from the necessity of carrying passports one who is still a sovereign de jure was recently held up for his. This was a few months ago in Switzerland, when King Alfonso was unrecognized by an official, who insisted upon detaining him until he could obtain someone who could vouch for his identity; which happened to be a matter of some little time, since he was in a district where he was comparatively unknown.

CHILDREN'S CONSTIPATION Ended!

Mrs. H. T. Rowson, Athens, Ont., writes: "My baby boy was troubled with constipation. I gave him Baby's Own Tablets as directed . . . Before I had given him the first tablet the constipation was righted. By relieving constipation, Baby's Own Tablets prevent more serious ailments developing. Much easier to take than nauseating laxatives and perfectly safe for all little folk from the wee babe to children of school age. 20c package."

HEDGINGS ON WHEAT MARKET NOT DISCLOSED

Ottawa.—The sceptre-like wheat operations of John I. McFarland, head of the central selling agency for the Canadian wheat pools, remained as mysterious as ever when Hon. Wesley Gordon, minister of labor, said it would be inadvisable to disclose the wins and losses of the government-backed money in the Winnipeg pit.

Early in the day the house gave second reading in the 1935 relief bill, 103-62, passed it through committee stage and added third reading without division.

Western Liberals led the fight to induce the government to disclose results of its hedging operations in the wheat market which have been directed by McFarland for two or three years. Although he has been credited with possessing more wheat than any man in history, no details of McFarland's operations ever have been established and whether he has made or lost money is known only to himself and Premier R. B. Bennett.

"I think," the labor minister told the house, "if any one is in the market, whether short or long, that it would be a most undesirable thing to advise the world of what he has done in the market, the exact position of any considerable trader."

The government, Mr. Gordon continued, entered the wheat market to stabilize prices through guarantees to the Canadian Co-Operative Wheat Producers Ltd. He believed that had been accomplished and support for the market would have to be continued. But at the moment it would be unwise to disclose wheat holdings and prices paid.

The labor minister said lump sums will be paid again this year to provinces to finance direct relief with municipalities. The system was inaugurated this year and, although some provinces were dissatisfied with the cash settlements, the minister believed it had worked well.

Check Soil Drifting

United States To Take Measures To Control Dust Storms

Washington.—A combined drive by seven United States governmental agencies to fasten the midwest's rich farm soil against the sweep of dust storms was determined upon.

Even as it was decided to concentrate the soil-anchoring campaign under the department of agriculture, the dark outriders of the most recent dirt storm still hung over part of the mid and southwest.

Secretary Harold Ickes and Henry Wallace, operating jointly, determined to transfer the soil erosion service of the department of interior and a portion of the civilian conservation corps working on soil erosion to the agriculture department. There they will form part of an entirely new organization to deal with various phases of the soil erosion problem.

Although dust storms still whirled high and wide over the mid and southwest, stifling conditions and shaded over most of the area. Damage of the dust was beyond estimation of crop experts at present. At Arkansas City, Kansas, prayers for rain were offered.

The agriculture department hurried to press, meanwhile, with an emergency bulletin on methods of checking and preventing wind erosion of soil.

Dr. Charles S. Kellogg, acting chief of the soil survey of the bureau of chemistry and soils, recommended to farmers a study of their soils, use of special type of plow and cultivator, planting of shelter belts, more carefully planned crop rotation and better control of grazing.

Suggestions from other agencies included the planting of some cover crop, such as grain sorghum, milo maize or kafir corn.

Faces Extradition

Manchester, N.H.—United States Commissioner Charles D. Barnard announced a finding against Captain Freeman Hatfield, whose extradition has been sought by the Canadian government to answer charges of defrauding the Dominion of $71,000 in war reparations claims. Commissioner Barnard said he would recommend Hatfield's extradition.

Airport Sites At Coast

Ottawa.—The government has acquired seven sites in British Columbia for air service purposes. Minister of Defence George Stirling told a questioner in the House of Commons.

Cost Of Canadian Legation

Expenses Of Upkeep Of Legation At Washington Are Announced

Ottawa.—Hon. W. D. Herridge, Canadian minister to Washington, has received $96,470 from June 1, 1931, to the present, according to a return tabled in the House of Commons. This amount was for salary and expenses. Mr. Herridge's outlay for entertainment was paid out of that amount.

The total cost of the Canadian legation at Washington in that period was $338,089.

Total cost of the high commissioner's office in London, from August, 1930, to February, 1935, was $564,273, another return said. This figure includes salaries and expenses.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, the Canadian high commissioner, has in that period received $164,903, the return said, from which he was obliged to make expenditures for entertainment. Additional sums, however, totalling in the neighborhood of $5,000, were advanced to cover Dominion Day receipts.

Rainy Season Expected

Government Entomologist Looks For End Of Drouth In West

Ottawa.—"We expect a more or less rainy season in the west this year, and that the drouth is over," declared R. Painter, entomologist in the department of agriculture, in an address here. He dealt with the ravages of grasshoppers in recent years in the west, and the methods being taken to combat them.

Mr. Painter said two or three species of grasshoppers were responsible for the "outbreaks" which cause such dire ruin crops. They were always the pests of semi-arid countries which had periodical drouth conditions. But it was possible to kill 95 per cent. of these insects by one application of "bait," consisting of bran, sawdust and poison.

During the year 1934 a total expenditure of $708,000 was involved in the three prairie provinces in the work of extermination, he said.

Election Act

Voters' List Will Be Revised Between May 15 And July 15

Ottawa.—Some details of the Dominion election and franchise regulations as amended last year were understood to have been discussed at a caucus of Conservative members of the House of Commons and senate with particular reference to the changes in the forthcoming elections.

A report that a proposal was adopted by caucus to amend the Franchise Act so annual revision of the list which the statute provides must be made between May 15 and July 15 might be waived this year was denied by a government spokesman. No such proposal was adopted nor made, he said.

Under the present act a basic list was prepared during the winter and is now practically ready for distribution. This list will be revised between May 15 and July 15, and each year thereafter on the same dates.

Regaining His Health

Expected Premier Bennett Will Return To House In Few Weeks

Ottawa.—Government supporters in the House of Commons and senate were given positive assurance by Sir George Perley that their party chief, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, had been given every reason to believe he would be back in his place in parliament within a few weeks.

So far as the best medical opinion could judge, the acting government leader told his colleagues, Mr. Bennett would be able to return to his parliamentary duties before propagation and would be in condition to lead his party in the general election campaign. Mr. Bennett will be confined to bed for about another week, according to present progress, and will then seek recuperation at some health resort for about a fortnight.

Will Go To England

Pasadena, Calif.—Although still in poor health, Viscount Julian Byng, who suffered a heart attack recently, has improved slowly and plans to leave for England about the first of next month. He came here for relief from bronchial trouble.

Advocates Coal Quota

Edmonton.—Adoption of a compulsory coal quota system under which the eastern market would absorb part of the Alberta production was advocated in the legislature by A. Smeaton, Labor member for Lethbridge.

Relief Distribution

329 Carloads Of Foodstuffs Sent To West By Presbyterian Church

Toronto.—The Presbyterian Church in Canada distributed 329 carloads of relief in the form of foodstuffs to drouth-stricken areas in the west in recent months, it was stated at a meeting of the board of missions here.

In addition to the food supplies, which had been collected in the east and sent to the prairie provinces and the Peace River district, 21,000 pounds of clothing were forwarded. The number of families helped was 1,050. Mrs. W. H. Fletcher, Toronto, superintended the collection and Mrs. H. R. Horne, Regina, the distribution of clothing. The church also provided 14 cases of Christmas gifts to needy families and in one instance cared for a whole community.

U. S. REMOVES ALL RESTRICTIONS AGAINST SEEDING

Washington.—Fearing a wheat shortage if another drouth—already threatened—occurs, Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace announced removal of all restrictions on plantings of spring wheats in the United States.

This action followed quickly after the year's first crop report showing farmers intend to plant 17,847,000 acres of spring wheat, compared with 18,521,000 acres planted in 1934.

"The drouth quite definitely continues," in part of the west, Wallace said, adding that a survey of the situation led the administration to the conviction that "in view of the possibility of another drouth which would seriously effect the output of wheat the government and farmers have a duty" to protect consumers against a wheat shortage.

The secretary estimated farmers will plant an additional 900,000 to 2,300,000 acres as a result of the action and would harvest between 10,000,000 and 30,000,000 bushels more. Spring wheat is normally about one-fourth of the total wheat crop.

Any surplus of wheat which may accumulate will be taken care of by the "ever-normal" granary plan, or the storing of reserves to be held against lean years, he said.

Drouth conditions are reported prevalent in the western parts of North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, the Texas Panhandle and the eastern portions of Colorado, Wyoming and Montana, the secretary said.

Secretary Wallace said that while wheat supplies had been reduced to about normal, none of the factors which contributed to the 1933 surplus, such as the loss of foreign markets, had been removed.

Object To Jap Goods

Shanghai, China.—"The breath-taking nation-lamenting group" is the newest thing in anti-Japanese societies to make its appearance in Shanghai. Members of the society congregate in front of Chinese shops believed to be selling Japanese-made goods. They beat their breasts, sing a wailing chant, and then smash the windows of the shop, taking to their heels as soon as policemen appear.

INTRODUCES BILL

Premier Angus L. Macdonald, of Nova Scotia, who is to introduce a bill in the Nova Scotia Legislature which will set up a permanent civil service for Nova Scotia in line with a recommendation of the Jones Commission of Economic Enquiry.

Notorious "Ghost" Caught

Young Boy Responsible For Strange Happenings On Ontario Farm

Perth, Ont.—The ghost of Burgess township, who last January was responsible for mysteriously breaking windows, walking flatirons and bouncing crockery in the home of John Quinn on the shore of Black Lake, is in the custody of Ontario provincial police.

The ghost turned out to be a 13-year-old Burgess boy, who is held also on a charge of arson in connection with the fire which destroyed a barn on the farm of Michael McFarland, a neighbor of his parents.

He is said to have admitted setting fire to the barn, and also to have told of being responsible for the mysterious goings on at the Black Lake farmhouse, which drew hundreds of curious visitors to the place, and baffled police and newspaper reporters.

Police turned the boy over to the superintendent of Lanark County Children's Aid Society, where he will be arranged in juvenile court.

Building Programs

Sees Drawbacks In Scheme To Relieve Unemployment

Ottawa.—Building programs designed to relieve unemployment have drawbacks, Minister of Labor Wesley Gordon advised the House of Commons.

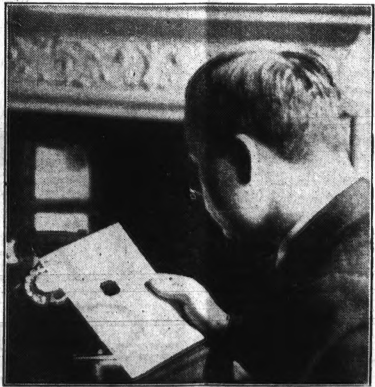

He visualized a government building erected in a county town with attendant publicity. For a time the local situation was improved but in a few days the town became flooded with men from all parts of the country, men who either did not have jobs or whose wages were lower than those paid on the government building.

"I have seen that happen time after time," he said.

Arrests In Russia

Moscow.—Soviet authorities have announced the arrest of 1,074 members of the old aristocracy and old moneyed class. Some of them, it was said, will be tried for "activities against the state in behalf of foreign countries," while the rest will be exiled to the eastern reaches of the Soviet Union.

RAREST STAMP FOR SALE

The rarest stamp in the world—it is insured for $50,000—has just arrived in England from the United States for sale in London. It is the British Guiana one cent stamp, the only one in the world, the property of Mr. Arthur Hind, who purchased it in Paris in 1922 for $30,000 francs (then worth about $37,000). Here we see the stamp being examined by Mr. Gordon Harmer, famous British stamp expert.

Riot In New York

Negroes Run Wild When Told Boy Killed For Stealing

New York.—Rioters raged through Harlem, largest negro settlement in United States, bringing injuries to at least 100, besides smashing store windows and looting them of their contents.

Seven hundred policemen drawn from all parts of Manhattan which includes Harlem, and from Brooklyn to the Bronx, broke up mob gatherings but could not prevent guerilla outbreaks. About 100 prisoners were booked at one station.

Police officials charged agitators with inciting the negroes and whites of the area to violence by telling them employees of a store had killed a young negro who was caught stealing a pair of shoes.

In reality, the store manager had turned the boy loose although he had bitten the two floor-walkers who caught him.

Not until 10 hours after the trouble began could the police find the boy to prove he was alive.

Solve West's Problems

Will Repay All Debts With Return Of Normal Crops

Ottawa.—The belief that, with co-operation of governments, financial institutions of the east and the church, the problems of the west would be solved, was expressed here by Premier J. G. Gardiner, of Saskatchewan. He added that people of the west would repay a hundred fold every sacrifice which might be made by people of Canadian in assisting to maintain westerners on their land.

Premier Gardiner was addressing a meeting of the University Club of Ottawa. He said that the question to-day was whether or not the west could come back—if it could again produce the wheat it had in the past. If the west could get back to the crops and prices which prevailed before the depression he believed Saskatchewan could pay off its debt "and have money left over for gasoline and other luxuries."

OTTAWA WILL EXTEND RELIEF ANOTHER YEAR

Ottawa.—Relief agreements with the provinces will be extended for another year at an Ottawa conference with Dominion officials. It was announced in the House of Commons by Labor Minister Wesley Gordon. The present agreements lapse at the end of the month.

The house devoted some time to the government's relief bill which would extend the present blank cheque for another year. Liberals announced they would oppose it because they considered it was an admission by the government of its inability to cure unemployment and relieve widespread distress.

The labor minister said the bill was designed merely to continue the direct relief agreements with the provinces and "before this session ends, other measures will be presented, looking toward providing work for our citizens." At the moment he could not disclose the nature of the bills.

Although pressed by various Liberals and Progressives, the labor minister said it would be impossible for the Dominion to relieve municipalities of direct relief costs. There was no machinery through which the Dominion could watch its money except at prohibitive cost. It was a safeguard to have provinces and municipalities contribute, it made them feel to see the money was spent properly.

"I do not believe," Mr. Gordon said, "this form of relief (direct) can be abandoned. It may be possible to adjust it in the light of other measures which may be brought down in this house and in the legislature, but I do not think direct relief can be abandoned."

Hon. Ernest Lapointe, former minister of justice, announced the Liberals would oppose the bill. "After five years of administration, no relief program or program to solve unemployment has yet been placed before the parliament of Canada," he said. When the government sought the fifth blank cheque it admitted its inability to formulate definite policies.

Another former Liberal cabinet minister, Hon. W. D. Fisher, led the forces urging the government relieve municipalities of relief costs, claiming cities and towns were being pushed into bankruptcy.

START FIRE IN PRISON REVOLT AT KINGSTON

Kingston, Ont.—An ominous 10-months' silence in Kingston penitentiary was broken when fire started—apparently simultaneously—in two work departments in the big prison and 50 convicts locked themselves in one of them with the flames.

Guards smashed down a steel door leading to the boot and clothing workshop and led the revolting prisoners to their cells as flames raged less than 50 feet away in the building where mail bags are manufactured. Prison officials refused to discuss the developments in any way.

Fire Chief James Armstrong of Kingston announced that damage by fire and water to the boot and clothing shop and to the mail-bag building would be heavy. The flames were believed to have started about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Firemen left the penitentiary grounds at 8:30.

"The mail-bag building was gutted," Chief Armstrong said. A foot of water covered the floor of the floor of the nearby shoe shop, which is situated on the second floor of the west wing in the main shop building, centre of the prison's industrial activity.

There was no official statement as to how the fire had started. The mail-bag building was deserted when flames were discovered there, it was learned, and guards concentrated on breaking down the door to the shoe shop where a group of convicts had locked themselves in.

No one was injured and the big institution beside Lake Ontario was as quiet at night as it has been without exception since last May when damage estimated at from $30,000 to $40,000 was caused by fire in the change room. Prisoners howled and "yammered" on that occasion.

Need Health Certificate

Bill Introduced In Alberta Legislature In Respect Of Prospective Bridal Couples

Edmonton.—Bills of health will have to be produced by prospective bridal couples in this province before marriages can be performed, under a bill introduced in the legislature by Hon. George Hoadley, minister of health.

Last year a similar bill caused widespread interest and was finally withdrawn, as it was felt that the public was not sufficiently informed.

An educational campaign has been carried on the province during the year by those approving of such legislation and Mr. Hoadley expects it to receive a more favorable reception.

The minister said the Local Council of Women, women's institutes, U.F.A., U.F.W.A., and the medical profession had approved of the proposed legislation.

Gold Production Mounts

Canada's January Output Worth Over Eight Million Dollars

Ottawa.—An increase of more than 15,000 ounces was shown in production of gold in January when the output totalled 249,029 ounces compared with 231,288 ounces in January, 1934, the Dominion bureau of statistics reported.

Ontario led the provinces with an output of 179,054 ounces, and Quebec second with 32,103 ounces while British Columbia was third with 25,726 ounces. Manitoba and Saskatchewan produced 11,496 ounces, Nova Scotia 580 ounces, Alberta 10 ounces, and the Yukon had an output of 23 ounces of alluvial gold.

The average price of gold in Canadian funds in January was $34.95 per ounce, valued at this price, the Canadian output was worth $8,703,564.

Curtail Council Rights

Alberta Legislature May Pass Bill Re Closing Of Schools

Edmonton.—Communists or others in control of municipal councils or school boards will have their rights curtailed in declaring civic or school holidays, if a legislature bill proposed is adopted.

The measure would prevent such towns as Blairmore, where radicals control the administration, from declaring civic or school holidays—as was decided in Blairmore in honor of Tim Buck's visit—without first obtaining a permit from the minister of municipal affairs.

Local and General Items

The Editor will be pleased to receive items for this section, regarding visitors entertained, parties leaving for holidays or short trips, bridge parties, teas, etc. Please items in to 11 or hand them in at The Enterprise office no later than Wednesday evening.

Miss Madeleine Chardon was a visitor to Calgary over the week end.

With Japanese shipping beer into Germany, and natural gas being piped into Ottawa, what is this old world coming to?

Lethbridge Collieries Limited have been incorporated under the Companies Act of the Province of Alberta, with a capitalization of $1,600,000.

A phone call to our office on Saturday announced the arrival of a new baby son to a couple at Hillcrest. We enquired of the weight, and the answer came: "Almost ten months."

Jimmy Joyce spent several days in Coleman hospital last week, still suffering from the effect of injuries sustained in the play-down hockey game at Drumheller.

The Coleman Journal during the week installed a brand new Pony Meikle newspaper press. This week's issue of The Journal comes off the new press.

People are asking what use is to be made of the Tim Buck shower baths at the local school. Well, for a community that has been willing for relief money, it doesn't look as though they need much.

And another: Even the Bellevue school was closed on Friday afternoon last—just because Tim Buck was to be there. If Tim ever lands in a lunatic asylum, we know what to blame for it.

His Lordship Bishop L. Ralph Sherman conducted confirmation at St. Luke's church on Sunday evening. At the morning service at Coleman, a class of candidates also received the sacrament.

Tim Buck, the communist, says Social Credit is only a tool of the capitalist to prolong the capitalist system. We leave his opinions strictly up to you to interpret—Claresholm Local Press.

Looked as though ladies of easy virtue from all over Alberta had congregated in Blaimore last week end to celebrate. We haven't heard as to whether or not they had been given the keys to the "city."

On and after May the 1st, butter packers and vendors in Alberta will be required to stamp on their wrappers the quality of the product. Creamery butter will be graded 1, 2 and 3.

They're running short of boy material at Brooks. All the recent arrivals by stork there lately have been girls. And Blaimore sheiks are advised to stay at home, as these girls are not on the market yet.

The Crows' Nest Chapter, I.O.D.E., are sponsoring a grand Silver Jubilee ball in the Columbus hall, Monday, May 6th, in commemoration of the 25th anniversary of the ascension to the throne of their Majesties King George V. and Queen Mary. Keep this date open as a good time is assured and watch for advertisements.

J. A. (Jack) McLeod, for years mine superintendent at the International mine at Coleman, has resigned, and leaves with his family shortly for Cadomin, where he has accepted a similar position. Jack has been very prominently identified with hockey and other sports at Coleman, and will be missed.

Before leaving Coleman, O. E. S. Whiteside is offering for sale all his furniture, house furnishings, equipment and belongings, including pictures, some books, technical and otherwise, one Buick Automobile with fitted trunk, and many other articles too numerous to mention. Everything will be ready for inspection any week day between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. James Kemp, of Kimberley, who were visiting here for a few days last week, left on Thursday night last for home.

Coleman will improve their main street, but there will be nothing attached to it so silly as is the Blaimore boulevard.

W. L. Carlyle, manager of the Prince of Wales ranch near Hipe River, was a visitor to Blaimore last week end.

A list of members of the council who voted in favor of paying themselves should be kept on record. Of course we know of some folks who wouldn't turn down a dollar.

Blaimore is probably through with sending delegates to Russia. Probably our treasury is getting low. Anyway, a lady remarked the other day that a well known daddy of twins is being delegated to Callander, Ontario, to get pointers.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. Teresa O'Brien, of Lewiston, Idaho, wishes to thank those who showed so much kindness in recent demise and funeral of her late brother, Thos. D. Roche.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Dad and Mother, who died March 27 and 31, 1924.

"The years are passing quickly,
 Still we can't forget;
 For in the hearts that loved them,
 Their memory lingers yet."
 Ever remembered by their children,
 Lilly, Bessie, Tom and Albert Crowder.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear Percy, youngest and dearly loved son of C. B. and M. A. Barrell, who left us March 28th, 1931.

"Christ gave thee. He took thee.
 He will restore thee.
 And death has no sting
 'Since the Saviour has died."
 Missed so much by Mum and Dad, and Sisters and Brother.

Saturday last was one of the busiest days of the season for Coleman stores.

Local Elks entertained their wives and friends at a party in the Lodge hall on Monday evening. The early part of the evening was given over to whist, followed by luncheon. After luncheon, house-house, was played, and music selections were rendered by the Elks' orchestra.

Bellevue Lady: "Aye! Hoo can a man mak' ends meet noo-a-days wif provisions at five dollars a bottle?"

We have been handed a list of low-down creatures who tried hard to get Tim Buck to say something offensive to The Blaimore Enterprise. Every community has that same brand of low-downs, who are no good in any place. Their influence is so weak that we rather enjoy it.
